RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- Sep 2020 – present Stanford University
Graduate Student
Biology Department • Supervisor: Dmitri A. Petrov
As a rotation student, I am working on inferring mean fitness from lineage tracking experiments in barcoded yeast populations.
Stanford, CA, United States
- 2017 – 2020 Institute of Science and Technology Austria
Research Assistant
Evolutionary Genomics Group • Supervisor: Fyodor A. Kondrashov
I studied how changes in genotype affect phenotypes, and how genetic interactions shape evolutionary trajectories. My main project investigated the genetic variation in a nearly extinct bird species. I used mathematical modelling, machine learning, and extensive data analysis.
Klosterneuburg, Austria
- Feb – Jul 2019 Harvard University
Visiting Postgraduate Research Fellow
Department of Systems Biology • Supervisor: Johan Paulsson
I worked on improving fluorescent proteins by designing and screening mutant libraries.
I did cloning, mutagenesis, and microfluidics.
Cambridge, MA, United States
- Jul – Aug 2017 University of Calgary
Visiting Undergraduate Student
Centre for Molecular Simulation • Supervisor: D. Peter Tieleman
I studied how P-glycoprotein interacts with lipids and transports drug molecules across cell membrane with coarse-grained molecular dynamics simulations.
Calgary, AB, Canada
- 2016 – 2017,
2012 – 2014 Institute of Macromolecular Compounds of the Russian Academy of Sciences
Undergraduate Student
Laboratory of Theory and Simulation of Polymer Systems • Supervisor: Andrey A. Gurtovenko
I performed atomic-scale molecular dynamics simulations of polymer systems.
Saint Petersburg, Russia
